Software project description approvals

Project Board members need to be sought to approve “Software project description” documents. See the “Function” columns to pick a committee member according to the merit of your project for the approval.

Software project delivery approvals

Committee members need to be sought to approve “Software project delivery” documents. Once a committee member agrees to work on the approval, they appoint an opponent, whom you will need to interact first. After recommendations (or refusals) from both your supervisor and the opponent, the committee member will tell you their verdict. If you are unable to find a committee member for the approval, kindly ask the chairman of the committee to appoint one.
